

Academy supports home based consultants

Recruitment Academy's

founding Managing Director, Michael Dimopoulos says he wants to ensure the Academy attracts the best Recruitment Consultants to place his Graduates entering the industry Recruitment Academy's national monthly 4 day intense course "real-day-to-day-life of a Recruitment Consultant, will attract graduates that are job ready from day one, to be placed within the industry and he hopes increase the overall calibre of consultants entering the recruitment industry.

Recruitment Academy's remuneration model is a stand alone and will be targeted towards consultants working from home.

"I will be selecting one consultant in every state that will be set up from home and Recruitment Academy will give them all the infrastructure and support such as dedicated Recruitment Academy phone line, email address, databases and marketing material to enable the consultant to work when they want and how they want" says Dimopoulos

Recruitment Academy's remuneration model is stand alone in the Industry and offers a no retainer but an attractive commission plan. This will give consultants an earning capacity based on productivity.

"This is ideal for consultants that have recently or have children and ideal for consultants that are tired of the churning monotony conditions faced on a day to day basis," says Dimopoulos.

Recruitment Academy is about to embark on a national launch road show and whilst in every state will be recruiting this unique career, lifestyle and employment opportunity.

"I have always been very different and will continue to introduce new, fresh innovative solutions to the Recruitment Industry. I believe that when you give the right person the autonomy to work when they choose the result can be surprising". ■
